Prayer Requests

I was considering what to write on for July, there are so many 4th of July items that come to mind, but when the fourth is done, much of July remains. So instead of the 4th being the center of this note; I want to bring up an idea I often share with Blessing. Whenever I am feeling negative about myself, or wanting to be better, I will tell Blessing, "When I grow up, I want to be you."

See Blessing is so good, he interacts with others well, he is caring, he is loving, he is not hard on the eyes... I could go on and on. It is good for me that I found such an amazing guy to be my partner. Yet, even if I could grow up and be him, I know it would be much better for the world in general if I could figure out how to be better.

I think we all want to be better, we want to think purer, we want to love healthier, we want to act with good intent. But sometimes with the news that is constantly bombarding us, with the noise that has infected every inch of our lives, with the continual need to be perfect and simultaneously nice and even tempered and ladylike or gentlemanly, the world has become a hard place in which to live.

We have two options. Leave this earthly plane; which would be dying for most of us, or receive something that can actually help us achieve the goals of being better, while still living. To me, the second option sounds better. So I have found a few inspirational, hard-hitting, quotes that I would like to share with you. Then I am going to print them out and stick them on every wall that looks at me with negativity.

"There is always light. If only we're brave enough to see it. If only we're brave enough to be it."

~Amanda Gorman

"Don't sit down and wait for the opportunities to come. Get up and make them."

~Madame C.J. Walker

There is nothing impossible to they who will try.

~Alexander the Great

Success is not final, failure is not fatal: it is the courage to continue that counts.

~Winston Churchill

Believe you can and you're halfway there.

~Theodore Roosevelt

Never allow a person to tell you no who doesn't have the power to say yes.

~Eleanor Roosevelt

If you have other inspiring quotes, share them! Leigh
